Selecting the Right Brush Bristle Types to Meet any Requirement

Flat Steel Wire	Chef Felton is North America's largest manufacturer of flat wire brushes! Flat steel bristles are thicker than traditional wire bristles and allow for extremely agressive scraping of grill surfaces. Flat steel is more durable than traditional carbon.
Carbon Steel Wire	This is a very popular metal fill for food service brushes. It has excellent ability to cut through deposits and resistance to fatigue. This fill is generally of lower cost than other fills.  Meant for use indoors as carbon steel is more susceptible to corrosion than stainless steel.
Brass Wire	Brass is the softest metal fiber available for brush fills. This means that the brush is able to withstand the highest temperatures while providing light to medium cleaning without scratches.
Stainless Steel	Stainless Steel is the best fill for cleaning grill surfaces! It is highly heat and fatigue resistant. It also eliminates the risk of corrosion on brush bristles. Stainless has slightly higher cutting ability than carbon steel and is also more durable.
Tampico	Tampico is a natural fiber grown in Mexico. It has a medium texture that works excellent for sweeping flour out of ovens.  Tampico is also a very absorbant material making it work well in both wet and dry conditions for scrub brush applications.  This fill offers heat resistance up to 400° F.
Horse Hair	Horse Hair is an extremely thick fill making it exceptional for sweeping semolina flour out of ovens. It is thicker than tampico and offers heat resistance up to 475° F.
Palmyra	Palmyra is a natural fiber that comes from the stalk of the palmyra palm. This fill has a medium stiff texture.  Traditionally used as a floor scrub or deck brush, palmyra also works extremely well for cleaning porcelain or ceramic grills over low heat as it will not scratch these high-end grill surfaces.

My name is Tony.

I purchased this century old brush company in 2004 and continued the tradition of manufacturing "high quality" wire welding brushes for industry. My father was given a misprinted stainless steel welding brush and indicated that it was the best grill brush he ever used. THE CHEF LINE WAS BORN. I quickly found out that most of the brushes made in the USA were switched to China and the quality is not as good as it used to be. We are proud to have grown this business over the last 5 years double digit by one new customer at a time. Hand crafted is important!

Employing people and giving back to our city is our responsibility. Thanks for supporting.

Why Felton?

A quality grill or oven brush is an absolute necessity when it comes to preventing cross-contamination and producing great tasting food. In addition, quality is a major concern when it comes to the safety of the products you use in your kitchen.

At Felton Brushes, safety is our main concern. As a producer of industrial brushes since 1933, we excel at producing the safest brushes on the market: a philosophy that we have brought into the food service sector.

We know that you have seen many brushes described as "professional" but it is our guarantee that none of them can compare to our collection of commercial products.

Every Chef Felton product is proudly made in Canada, exclusively with North American Materials.
